ALTERNATIVE BREAKS
Alternative Breaks are week long service trips designed to educate and expose individuals to the terrible realities of poverty for Atlanta’s inner city youth and adults. We do this by providing the opportunity for individuals to serve with Medici Project and other organizations as they seek to make a difference in the lives of impoverished individuals.
Development Labs are small gatherings of students with high potential of influencing their community and culture. In these labs, students explore Proper Biblical Worldview, Gospel Articulation, and Entrepreneurial Incubation, helping them make their own ideas happen to change the world.
URBAN MISSION TRIPS
Urban Mission Trips are hosted in Atlanta and New York City. Medici Project strategically aligns itself with organizations in these cities who are serving individuals on a consistent basis, engaging students with eclectic cultures, socio-economic backgrounds, and scriptural teaching process that helps students understand the motives behind serving others.
WORLDVIEW WEEKENDS
Worldview Weekends is a 1.5 day event at your local church, centered around biblical worldview formation. Processed through 4 sessions paired with intentional small group time, students are able to explore questions like: Who is God? What does it mean to be human? What is the gospel and how does it apply to my life?
We’re looking for people who are generally cooperative, amicable, and sharp to be a part of the Medici Project team. Each applicant must be a current student enrolled in a degree-granting program at an accredited university or a local high school. Internships are financially stipended; school credit is available. The exact dates of the internship will depend on each student’s availability.

- Summer Internship: May/June – August
- Fall Internship: September-December
- Spring Internship: January-April
Positioned at the top of the influence pyramid, millennials are an inspiration to both the younger and older generations. Deemed as “global youth”, millennials have full access to the world due to the resource of the internet. Millennials have developed a unconfined way of thinking that mimics their interactions with the internet, where an infinity of subjects can be followed all at the same time. For millennials, it’s easy to start out with something, and end up somewhere else.

In this generation, it’s easy to be a painter, consultant, nerd, and sports maniac all at the same time. This is the most plural youth generation in history! Conventional career plans and bureaucratic systems are a losing strength. More and more millennials want to marry work with pleasure.

Their biggest idols aren’t the most famous figures in history, but are common people who realize small possible dreams are just that...possible. They are the trend setters, the economic movers and shakers. Ruled by open source and crowd sourcing, and independent initiatives, these individuals can have immeasurable impact, all made possible by the internet and their drive to do something with their lives.
